DCDT DEPUTY MINISTER ADDRESSES THE 365 DAYS OF NO GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE - MEN'S DIALOGUE

The Deputy Minister of Communications and Digital Technologies, Hon Mondli Gungubele will address the 365 Days Campaign Against Gender-Based Violence - Men's Dialogue in Khayelitsha, Western Cape Province on Thursday, 31 July 2025.

The 365 Days Campaign aims to extend the efforts to eliminate gender-based violence beyond the 16 Days of Activism. The role of men in fighting the scourge of violence against women, children and persons with disabilities cannot be overemphasized.

The DCDT initiatives for the 365 Days Campaign and the 16 Days of Activism are designed to enhance understanding of the potential of technology in the prevention and response to gender-based violence (GBV), to strengthen the implementation of the National Strategic Plan (NSP) on GBVF by all social partners, and to expand on the call to action for men as partners and boys to stand against the rape and sexual abuse of women and children.

Taking place on the eve of Women's Month, the event highlights the Department's commitment to building safer, more inclusive communities where technology, skills, and digital access are used as tools to empower and protect survivors of gender-based violence and persons with disabilities.
